Principal's Message

To the South Portsmouth Parent Teacher Association: The teachers, students, and administration are grateful for the time and finance in publishing this issue of the SOUTH PORTSMOUTH SCHOOL.

The South Portsmouth School is concerned with the full development of your child's capabilities. Each day the school offers an educational program designed to increase the understanding and skill of children and help them grow into mature and useful citizens. Each day represents a significant monetary investment in every boy and girl enrolled in our school. But of even greater importance, each day represents an immeasurable investment in human concern and effort on the part of your child's teachers and other persons responsible for the maintenance and operation of our school. A lost day of school is never regained.

Attending school and achieving is the primary job of the student. If he is to become a responsible adult and succeed at his chosen vocation, he must form good work habits. Punctuality and regularity in attendance are part of the student's training in school. Such habits will benefit him throughout his life. Parents owe their children the duty of seeing that they are in school every day unless there is a valid reason for absence.

Raymond E. Hesse
